Director’s Message: Adjusting Instruction to Allow for Student Learning Differences

Dear Parents,

I am writing this letter to you sitting in my hotel room in Berlin, Germany, site of the annual QSI Directors Conference. The theme of the conference is this year is “Differentiating Instruction To Help All Students Be Successful”. Dr. Stephen Viola and Dr. Robbie Ludy, both from the United States, have provided the directors with valuable information about how teachers can monitor and adjust curriculum and classroom management strategies to help them meet the needs of each child.

On November 15 and 16, 2010, Dr. Viola and Dr. Ludy will come to QSI Shekou to share this great information with our teaching staff and the staff members of the other seven schools in our region. (See Upcoming Events above.)

As you know, every student is different in how they learn and teachers need to know how to identify those differences and adjust accordingly. They will, no doubt, come away from their time with Dr. Viola and Dr. Ludy with practical ideas to incorporate into their learning program so that your children will get an optimal learning experience at school. We look forward to this opportunity to further our learning and knowledge. Remember – NO SCHOOL on 15 and 16 November! We will all be in class – you get a long weekend. ☺

Respectfully, Mr. Page – Director

ATTENTION PARENTS!!! WE NEED YOUR HELP!!!!

QSI Shekou is working hard to update family information in our school database. To do this properly we need the most current family information possible from every QSI Shekou family.

Please make sure to contact the school whenever you have a new cell-phone number, home phone number, work phone number or email address.

In addition, the office staff is asking that you provide the office with copies of current family member passports and visa information. Thanks for your cooperation! QSI Office Staff (See additional emailing!)
